The Three-Stranded Cord

Today's society teaches us that asking for help is a sign of weakness. The world says we are to be individualists, making decisions and handling the pressures and consequences of those decisions on our own. This way of thinking and style of decision making is a method for disaster when it comes to important financial decisions.

How do we find biblical help for our money? Join us this weekend as we consider this question.

With Thanks & Gratitude

~Thanking you continually for all your prayers, visits, cards, food & transportation. It has been more than helpful especially for Windle. I am doing very well since my surgery and the new hormone therapy is not showing any adverse side effects, for which we are thankful. Soon I will start physical therapy here at home and hope to be back in services before long. I go back to the surgeon in 2 weeks and the oncologist in 5 weeks (in Lawton). Please continue to pray for complete remission.

Barbara and Windle Kee

~Dear Church Family, Thank you for your love, kindness and support. We are overwhelmed by the thoughtful gifts we have received for the birth of our daughter, Kotie. We are blessed to be a part of this family. Love,

Bodie and Emily Payne

~Thank you for the food and visits. Thank you ever so much for the prayers lifted up to God on my behalf. P.S. The food was very tasty!
